

MURDER AT THE CASINO FATALE

InterContinental Grand Stanford Hong Kong

If you have a keen eye for detail and secretly wish to be Sherlock Holmes, then the Murder Mystery Dinner Show in InterContinental Grand Stanford Hongkong should captivate you.

The event on April 24 takes you back to Las Vegas circa 1965. Detective Slate receives a call about a murder at the Casino Fatale. Snoop around and figure out if the deed was done by Doris Knight, the veteran waitress, Herman Kaplowski, the nervous Blackjack dealer, Alfred Twittington III, the wealthy tourist from Hongkong or his wife, Abigail Twittington III.

Menu: Solve the murder over a four-course dinner that has been specifically designed for the theme. Start your night with a Las Vegas cocktail. Whet your appetite with a dish of smoked salmon and consommé of game. For your mains, choose between fillet of cod and roasted tenderloin of beef. End your meal with a scrumptious baked Alaska.

Price: HK$798 (US$103)

Availability: The April 24th event starts at 7.30pm. Events are irregular with the last organised on December 18, 2009. Check with the website indicated below for latest shows. Capacity ranges from 90 to 250 depending on the venue.
